

Courtesy and civility to fellow passengers are the hallmarks of proper conduct in the close quarters of an airliner. Far too many public cellphone users yammer away oblivious to their surroundings and to those nearby. If allowed at all, cellphone use on airliners should be restricted to a cellphone section akin to the now defunct smoking sections.